J. O. GRIFFITH & CO. Dally 88, Semi-Weekly 84, Weekly 82. SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1871.

A COTEMPORARY thinks that "the down fall of Mormonism will relieve us of the last relic of barbarism." He evidently forgets that martial law is on the rampage in the South.

Gov. Austin, of Minnesota, received a bribe of $5,000 for signing a railroad bill favorable to a ring of monopolists. This fact was well-known during the canvass. yet the Radicals re-elected him.

We thought the new poet, Joaquin Miller, was very like Byron; and now it appears that he has had a difficulty with his wife. She writes about it in the newspapers herself, fearful, perhaps of a posthumous vindication from Mrs. Stowe.

YESTERDAY Grant issued a proclamation suspending the writ of habeas corpus in Union county, South Carolina. The telegraph reports that twenty-one persons were arrested in that county on the 8th inst. So it appears Grant's minions do not wait for the proclamation suspending the writ. They knew it was coming.

In a recent speech in Baltimore, Gov. Whyte, of Maryland, said truly: "Peace was Grant's promise to the South, but cruel and relentless war was in his heart. He can send the peaceful followers of Penn with words of gentleness, soft as a mother's smiles, to the red men of the forest, but he knows no law of kindness for his white brethren at the South."

"Money to loan on St. Louis real estate. in sums to suit," is an advertisement in the St. Louis papers. How much money could be borrowed in Nashville, or Memphis, or any other town in Tennessee, "on real estate?" None at all. How is it that St. Louis has money to loan on real estate, the best of security? Because the interest laws of Missouri have been more liberal than those of Tennessee. We have at last taken a step in the right direction, and now it is proposed to retrace that step.

"THERE are men in South Carolina," says the New York Tribune, "who are sucking the blood of the State; who are swindling the people out of tens of thousands of dollars every year. There are men in Columbia who have grown suddenly rich by stealing. They publish the fact to the world by sporting gay equipages and living like princes." Grant is helping these officeholders by hounding the people with his soldiers and arresting them upon the secret evidence of negroes, some of them convicted of high crimes. That's the way Grant lets us have peace.

THE elections are now over and Grant has the following paragraph printed in his "hand organ," the Washington Republicum: the requests received from societies for at the request of Brownlow & Co., but leaves of absence for their members em- when the facts were looked into, he was ployed in the several Departments that in future he would prefer not to entertain them, and is constrained to direct that such members will themselves apply to their im-

Controller Brodhead, who says that this transaction is wholly irregular, also announced that the only basis on which these counts could be adjusted would be to allow the government six per cent interest on the sum converted into bonds and deposited by Ballock for a period of eighteen onths. As the amount of bonds which Ballock had in the safe deposit company and treasury was two hundred and fifty housand dollars, he was compelled to pay the sum of twenty-two thousand five hu dred dollars in addition to restoring the bonds. The latter sum was to make good the value of coupons which had been

But before people had ceased wondering at this decapitation of a "loyal" man, and why it should have been done, Senator Brownlow rushed into print to claim the bonor for himself and Mr. Horace Maynard. In support of this claim he published a letter addressed by them to Grant, and added with a self-satisfied air, that he had "reason to know" that that letter fixed Mr. Camp and turned him under. The result is, the chagrin of the Republicans of Tennessee, and an active issue between them and the President."
